Good Shepherd

Zechariah 10

God gets angry with people that willingly mislead other people. Especially when those people are in leadership positions. False prophets were a good example of this, but this deceptive leadership was found in the priesthood and from the kings as well. He says, "My anger is kindled against the shepherds, and I will punish the goatherds. For the Lord of hosts will visit His flock, the house of Judah, and I will make them as His royal horse in the battle" (10:3).

Because the shepherds were worthless, as if they were absent altogether (10:2), God is coming to His flock. This wording reminds us that the shepherds were not put over their own flock. They had forgotten that it was God's flock. This kind of language will be used frequently in the book of Zechariah. The shepherds are worthless (11:17), they are foolish (11:15), and they prepare the flock for slaughter (11:4). There is a desperate need for a replacement shepherd which will ultimately be found in the Messiah (13:7).

Thus, if the shepherds will not shepherd the flock, then God will. God will strengthen His people, save them, bring them back, have mercy on them, hear them, and redeem them. The children of God will in turn, "walk up and down in His name" (10:12). What the leaders of Israel could never do for God's people, God will do.

Much later, the Messiah will say, "I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd gives His life for the sheep. But a hireling, he who is not a shepherd, one who does not own the sheep, sees the wolf coming and leaves the sheep and flees; and the wolf catches the sheep and scatters them. I am the good shepherd; and I know My sheep, and am known by My own. As the Father knows Me, even so I know the Father; and I lay down My life for the sheep. And other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they will hear My voice; and there will be one flock and one shepherd" (John 10:11-16).
